FEATURED MEETING

OPEN INVITATION: AN OPEN FORUM FOR STANDARDS DEVELOPERS

Last month's CSB announced a meeting to be held in New York City on June 20-21, following up on a landmark meeting held last year in Boston between representatives of the consortium and accredited standards development communities. Like last year's meeting, the upcoming meeting has been organized and is sponsored by the American National Standards institute (ANSI).

More details are now available at the ANSI Website, including the full agenda of the meeting and additional details on registration, lodging and attendees.

Representatives of more 30 consortia and accredited standards development organizations have already registered, as well as representatives of government agencies and major vendors. There is still a limited amount of space available, so if you plan to attend, be sure to register today.
